Cup of Coffee Ran Away.

A woman entered one of New York's automatic lunchrooms appearing much preoccupied. After changing a dime for two tickets she put one of them in the slot marked "sandwiches" and the other in the hot coffee slot. She turned the crank, as per directions, and then gave a series of panic-stricken wailing shrieks of "Oh, oh, oh—look!" The other waitresses turned in time to see that she had forgotten to put a cup under the faucet, hence the steamy. All of the heavenly liquid had filtered down in the drain.

WEDDING BELLS WILL RING

Investigation Made by Prospective Bride Evidently in No Way Discouraged Her.

A girl in town had a proposal of marriage one Sunday night, and asked a week to consider it before filing her answer, testifies T. A. Sawhill. She then organized herself into an investigating committee and commenced taking testimony from the married ladies of her acquaintance. The first one she visited used to be a belle and the most admired girl in the town before she was married six years before.

The cross-examination brought out the fact that she had three children, did all her own work, including her washing and ironing, and hadn't been down town for four weeks, and that her husband had given her but two dollars since she was married, and that he borrowed and forgot to pay back ten dollars for a Christmas present. He bought a new overcoat with the money, while she wore the same plush coat that she wore when he was courting her.

Another woman whom she visited quit teaching school three years before to marry "the handsomest and best-dressed man in town," and she is now supporting him.

A third didn't dare say her soul was her own when her husband was around, though she used to write some lovely essays when she was at school on the "emancipation of women," and the fourth woman she visited was divorced.

After visiting them and summing up the evidence, she went home and wrote to the young man. She will be married to him next month.—Kansas City Journal.

WHOLE FAMILY DEPENDENT.

Mr. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ohio, writes: "Our whole family depend on Pine-Tar-Honey." Maybe some one in our family has a severe cold—perhaps it is the baby. The original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ever ready household remedy—it gives immediate relief. Pine-Tar-Honey penetrates the linings of the throat and lungs, destroys the germs, and allows nature to act. At your druggist, 10c.—Adv.

ABOUT THE RANGE OF CANNON

When Fired at the Ordinary Battle Elevation, American 12-inch Gun Outshoots English 15-inch.

Since the Queen Elizabeth made its dramatic entry into the war there has been a great deal of nonsense written about the range of its guns, which, we have been told, outrange any other weapon in existence and can send their projectiles twenty-eight miles.

Of course, if 15-inch guns are in combat with 12-inch, the difference in range is considerable, but for all practical purposes the 12-inch gun has quite as long a reach as the 15-inch. Indeed, the United States government has appended a table to the Fortifications Appropriation Bill which goes to show that, if anything, the advantage in this matter lies with the smaller weapon. According to this table, the range of the various guns when trained to an elevation of fifteen degrees is as follows: Twelve-inch, 24,874 yards; 12.5-inch, 21,658 yards; 15-inch, 21,193 yards. This shows a difference of two miles in favor of the 12-inch gun as against the 15-inch.

Range depends largely upon elevation, but as a rule naval guns are so mounted as to be incapable of firing at a greater angle than about twenty degrees. The official American table, however, credits the British 15-inch guns with a range of 46,299 yards if elevated forty-five degrees, a note being added to the effect that such an elevation is "not used." This represents close upon twenty-six and one-half miles, but firing at such a distance would hardly be effective because of the large angle of the fall of the shot and the consequently small "danger space"—Percival A. Hildam in the London Globe.

Some Forms of Rheumatism Curable.

Rheumatism is a disease characterized by pains in the joints and in the muscles. The most common forms are: Acute and chronic rheumatism, rheumatic headaches, sciatic rheumatism and lumbago. All of these types can be helped absolutely by applying some good Uniment that penetrates. An application of Sloan's Uniment two or three times a day to the affected part will give instant relief. Sloan's Uniment is good for pain, and especially rheumatic pain, because it penetrates to the seat of the trouble, soothes the afflicted part and draws the pain. "Sloan's Uniment is all medicine." Get a 25c bottle now. Keep it handy in case of emergency.—Adv.
